New Taxes For Logging, Mining

B. C. Budget Hits Record $275 Million

Opposes Sale Of B.C. Power To United States

The International political aspect of British Columbia waterways was outlined by Ernest Watkins, noted British commentator and author, to the Penticton Canadian Club last night in the Hotel Prince Charles here.

Dealing with the power potential of the Columbia and Yukon rivers, he said that there was only 700,000 horsepower being developed on the Canadian portion of the Columbia. The American portion has had two thousand million dollars spent on the present development of nine million horse power.

The main point of contention at this time, he pointed out, is the U.S. opposition to the British Columbia scheme of diverting the surplus water that would be made available by the Mica Creek dam. B.C. wants to generate power with this dam and also to divert, to further power development on the Thompson River, the surplus water that normally is wasted during the spring runoff.

"Canadians claim that by maintaining a constant flow in the Columbia no damage can result to American interests downstream," Mr. Watkins said. "The Americans disagree, and in their attitude on other disputes of similar nature, seem to take a 'heads I win, tails you lose' approach to the methods and treaties which have come into being to deal with boundary water disputes."

In the case of the Colorado River, which runs out of the USA and into Mexico, an argument started in 1840. Mexico objected to the American diversion of water from this river in large amounts. The U.S. considered that they had absolute right of action on the part of the river lying within its own territory. It was not until 1944, with the Colorado River Treaty, that the matter was settled and then Mexico was only allotted one and a half million acre feet of water which was eight percent of all the water produced in the Colorado watershed.

In brief, the International Boundary Water Treaty of 1909 states: "Each country has a right to divert or abstract water from rivers in its own territory. However, if by doing so, it injures the interests of the other country

Britain, France Split With U.S. On Israel

LONDON — (BUP) — Britain and France split today with the United States over the question of reprisals against Israel, and Britain was reported seeking a compromise solution to prevent an open break.

Premier Guy Mollet of France called an emergency cabinet meeting this morning on the Middle East and his forthcoming talks with President Eisenhower. Reliable sources said he would demand a strong declaration of support for Israel.

At the same time authoritative sources in London said Britain's Conservative government was not prepared to go along with reprisals which the United States may now demand.

The two developments came as Israel appealed to the world and especially the United States for "understanding" in its refusal to quit Egyptian territory without firm guarantees.

But Israel prepared for the worst, and Jerusalem newspapers warned that sanctions and acute hardship may lie ahead as result of Premier David Ben-Gurion's "no" to President Eisenhower's call for unconditional withdrawal.

The Israeli parliament postponed a vote on Ben-Gurion's "no withdrawal" speech pending another diplomatic try at negotiations by ambassador Abba Eban who left today by plane for the United States.

Most of the speakers — with exception of the Communists — supported Ben-Gurion during today's debate and insisted that there must be guarantees

Costs Of Proposed $28 Rebate Criticized By Municipal Group

The municipal costs involved in handling the expected $28 tax rebate to home-owners were discussed at the annual meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association in Vernon Thursday.

Other problems debated were: shop closing problems, insurance for travelling council members, and gas inspection requirements.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson of Summerland is the new president, succeeding Mayor N. S. Johnson of Enderby; Alderman C. A. Jackson of Kelowna, vice-president.

Others on the executive are: J. Pothecary, Armstrong; F. V. Harwood, Vernon; and C. H. Day, Kamloops.

Mayor J. E. Fitzwater, president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities said he was disappointed with the results of a recent meeting between the U.B.C.M. representatives and the cabinet officials. He pointed out that the Premier and three members of the cabinet had not attended the meeting with municipal representatives. This had not been looked upon with favor by the civic delegation, he added.

He said that when the 70 cents per diem problem was mentioned to the Hon. E. C. Martin, the minister laughed at the idea of removing this burden from the civic governments.

Firemen Battle House Blaze

Smoke pouring out of a small residence at 425 Heales avenue last night resulted in a quick trip by the fire department. The house was vacant at the time.

On arrival firemen found they could not gain entry, owing to the volume of smoke. Using gas masks they managed to enter the house and extinguished a smoldering fire.

The source of fire was near the gas furnace. The property is owned by Mrs. David Yule.

Local Scout Honored By Governor General

A high honour has been conferred upon Scoutmaster J. P. Stocks by the Gov. Gen. Vincent Massey, chief Scout for Canada, in awarding him the medal of merit for good services to Scouting.

The letter informing Scoutmaster Stocks of this award was presented last Saturday by Patrol Leader Ron Ramsay of the 1st Penticton Troop.

Scoutmaster Stocks was presented the medal in recognition of the work done for Scouting in Penticton since 1937. During this period he has been an outstanding scoutmaster, devoting much more time to scouting than normally would be expected. He has taken his troop on frequent winter camps and long bicycle journeys.

The 1st Penticton Troop have performed many community and individual good turns. Nine Scouts from the troop attended the 8th World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake (1956).

Patrol Leader Ramsay is a candidate to attend the 9th Jamboree in England this year which is being held in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of Scouting and Lord Baden-Powell's 100th birthday.

Scoutmaster Stocks, in addition to scouting, is active in the church, theatrical and sporting groups of the community. He is also A.D.C. (Air Force) to the Lieutenant-Governor.

Attending the presentation ceremonies were District Commissioner J. Laidlaw and District President Dr. T. H. Anstey.

U.S. Resident Fined On Licence Charge

A U.S. Resident, Harold Myers, en route from Anchorage, Alaska, to Seattle Wash., with two transport trucks, was apprehended here this week and charged with operating the trucks without proper B.C. plates.

It was stated in court that the two semi-trailers were being used contrary to regulations governing the moving of such vehicles through the province.

Two $25 fines were imposed, together with a total court costs of $6.

$67.5 Million Set For Roads, Bridges In B.C.

BY RON WILLS

VICTORIA — (BUP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett this afternoon brought down a self-described cautionary budget that dismissed talk of double taxation for British Columbia.

His budget increased by some $16,000,000 over last year to a record $274,700,000 for the fiscal year 1957-58. It added taxation on logging and mining and contained no change in consumer tax.

The budget predicted a surplus of $2,000,000 to result from estimated ordinary revenues of $276,000,000 and ordinary expenditures of $274,000,000.

Bennett, who holds the finance minister's portfolio in his Social Credit cabinet, claimed a reduction of $14.85 in British Columbia's net per capita debt.

The budget revealed a record $67,500,000 would be spent on roads, bridges and ferries in the province for 1957-58, compared with $64,450,000 during the previous fiscal year.

In disclosing that another five-year federal-provincial tax rental agreement would be signed, the budget dispelled accusations made Thursday by the CCF opposition that the provincial government planned to "move into the personal income tax and corporation tax field" and impose a degree of "double taxation" on its residents.

The opposition had said failure to mention a new tax rental agreement in the throne speech left the legislature to assume the provincial government proposed to enter the field itself.

The current agreement expires March 31. The new agreement permits B.C. to impose a two per cent taxation premium of insurance companies, and clamp more control on mining and logging through extra taxation.

The revised tax-rental proposals allow for widening the field of application but not altering the rate on the logging and mining tax acts with respect to basic operations. Taxes paid by companies through the plan would be deductible from federal income tax.

Provincial taxation of insurance companies fills the tax field vacated January 1 of this year by Ottawa. It is expected to add $2,350,000 to the province's coffers for 1957-58.

Estimated revenue gain from logging is $1,600,000, and from mining $500,000.

Tax Rebate Plan Outlined

Premier Bennett said the proposed $28 annual tax rebate to home-owners would cost the provincial government $7,490,000.

He reported 116,000 of the eligible home-owners would be from cities throughout British Columbia, with the remainder from municipalities and unorganized territory.

Bennett said full details of the plan would be explained in the act to be placed before the legislature during the current session.

However, he has already outlined a portion of the proposal. A property-owner paying more than $29 taxation each year would receive the full $28 rebate. A person paying annual taxes totalling $25 would be given a $24 refund, leaving him with a tax bill of $1 and thereby keeping him registered as a taxpayer.

Only resident home-owners — those living on their property — would be eligible for the rebate.

Two questions as yet unexplained are: What would the policy be in governing home-owners living in their houses for less than a year?

How would a person be classified who resided in his city home except for the few months of the year when he moved to his own summer property?

Old-age pensioners were ignored in the budget, however, despite earlier requests from both opposition and government members of the house for increased allowances.

Premier Bennett said it was up to the federal government to make any increases warranted. British Columbia, the premier said, already pays the highest portion of old age pensions of any province in Canada.

$46 Million Gain In New Tax Agreement

VICTORIA — (BUP) — Hard bargaining by Premier W. A. C. Bennett over the new federal provincial tax rental agreement will net $46 million extra revenue for British Columbia over the next five years.

This was disclosed this afternoon when finance minister Premier Bennett brought down his fifth budget since his Social Credit party was swept to power in 1952.

Bennett said the new agreement gives the province $46,000,000 more return over the five-year period "than estimated yield of the original federal proposals."

At the same time, the budget said B.C. would have lost $28.5-million if it had signed an agreement identical with current contract.

The present agreement expires March 31 of this year, while the new one will be valid until March 31 of 1962.

Premier Bennett told the house he was still not satisfied with the treatment given the provinces over the tax rental agreements.

He called it "incomprehensible" that out of the $235.5-million collected in British Columbia (during 1954-55), only $40.1-million — or 17 percent — is allocated to the province, whereas $139-million — or 21.7 percent — is proposed as payment to Quebec from the $640-million collected there.

"The effect of this is a reduction of 11 percent for British Columbia and an increase of 11 percent for Quebec."

Is This Caution?

The budget brought down in Victoria this afternoon is described by Premier Bennett, who is also the government's finance minister, as a "cautious" one.

We can only answer that the premier is talking through his hat.

This budget is $16 millions more than last year's and brings the province's estimated revenues for 1957-58 to a record of $276 millions.

If this is Mr. Bennett's idea of caution, then the whole thing becomes a bit numbing.

B.C.'s expanding economy can stand the pace so long as business continues to accelerate. But any recession, even a modest one, will have its impact on the astronomical programs and plans continuing to be launched under governmental auspices. They are not the sort of thing that can be retrenched upon too, in keeping with the way the economy moves.

We therefore would welcome a truly "cautious" budget.

But the one brought before the legislature in Victoria this afternoon was not in that class, the premier's words to the contrary.

The budget speech could not resist a fling against Ottawa's so-called "hard money". Yet the truth is that this B.C. government's program of almost all-out expense helps to create the very inflationary problem that makes "hard money" necessary. The further fact that Ottawa's own spending could also be restrained only adds to the whole political anomaly, we acknowledge, but if we confine our attention to the B.C. budget we must sum up with the comment that it is indeed far from cautious. Under all circumstances, it is extremely incautious.

Not All Profit

Apparently the planned $28 rebate to resident home-owners will not be all clear profit.

According to statements made yesterday at the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association session, the municipal governments will be saddled with the cost of administering the rebate, and these costs will be by no means small. It was stated that one coast place has estimated its cost would approximate $10,000.

Thus while the individual resident home-owners, will receive a direct benefit, they will have to pay, indirectly, for the privilege, through bookkeeping costs.

It would have been more honest if the government had lessened the direct benefit, and assumed the costs for instituting it.

Then the real amount of benefit to the home-owner would have been known.

At The Key Point

"At many remote stations the children must go to schools built, staffed and operated by the Department of National Defence. We have 24,000 students with nearly 1,000 teachers in our own schools which we must operate. Of these, 3,500 students and 182 teachers are in schools abroad in Germany and France."

This statement, made in a recent radio interview with the Hon. Ralph Campney, Canada's Minister of National Defence, illustrates the size and complexity of Canada's defence programme. To keep Canada from becoming another Hungary, National Defence this year will spend over a third of the national budget. In the United States 60 per cent of the government's revenues are spent on defence and other projects directly connected with the defence of the free world.

Whether we like it or not — we live in a fully armed world.

Our hope for survival is probably to stay armed well enough and long enough that we keep off attack until a calmer state of mind develops among our potential aggressors.

Our defence is collective. No single country is capable of protecting itself, single-handed, against planes that fly faster than bullets, rockets that span oceans and atomic submarines that need refueling only once every two years.

Our defence system co-operates with other countries in the free world in three ways: (1) We co-operate with the United States in the joint defence of North America; (2) we co-operate with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), which includes England and France, in defending aggression against any of its members; (3) we co-operate in the efforts of the United Nations to maintain world peace.

The total numbers of our servicemen and civilian employees of the Defence

Department, with their wives and children, would fill a city the size of Vancouver. Federal government direct spending on national defence in British Columbia alone was $100 million last year (1955-56). This is more than half the B.C. government's budgetary spending for the same period. In addition, the Defence Department spent $36 million in B.C. on construction and another $11 million on maintenance of the Alaska highway, 700 miles of which is located in this province. This last amount is almost equal to the annual budget of the B.C. Department of Highways.

There are 29 armories throughout B.C. and many more permanent establishments operated by the Navy, Army and Air Force. A total of 1767 permanent living quarters are required for the married personnel of the three forces living in B.C. If put together these living quarters would be equivalent in size to many an interior B.C. city. In addition, there are 5,875 civilians employed by the department in this province.

British Columbia is located on the pivotal point of North American defences. It is the western anchor of Canada's defence line and, together with Alaska, it is the northern anchor of the Pacific coast defences of the continent. Strategists know that an attack upon North America might come through and over British Columbia and neighboring Alaska.

That is why Canada must apparently continue to spend vast sums for its security and defence and why its defence programme must be carried out in as close co-operation as possible with the United States.

Joint North America defence, coupled with joint defence of the free world, are essential to our survival. In this whole plan British Columbia is a key point.

FRUIT PROBLEMS

Editor, The Herald, Sir:

Having been a fruit grower for 35 years, and still am a grower, naturally I have the welfare of the fruit growing industry at heart.

From my own observations we have too many old trees in this area, which cannot be handled economically in the way of spraying, thinning and picking.

Too much stress is put on the amount of production per acre rather than the quality produced.

I think that we are lagging behind by not adopting new methods of packing and handling our fruit. Our packinghouses pack our fruit regardless whether the grower gets any returns or not, and I would suggest that in heavy production seasons that no Cee grade be packed except only in the large size, and then only when the market warrants it.

I would also suggest a government inspector at the receiving door of each packinghouse with power to reject any fruit, which in his opinion is low grade and not worth the expense of handling. There are quite a few people who grow fruit not for a livelihood but as a sideline and they have the impression that it can be grown with very little labor.

Another suggestion which would assist growers is that more information be given the grower by the packinghouses and B.C. Tree Fruits as to whether certain varieties would be worth the cost of picking and packing, and also a curb-on U.S. rail on our market at cut rate prices when our own fruit is ready for market.

We have suffered two very severe reverses, one in 1950, and the last in 1955, through frost damage, which has meant a substantial loss in revenue, as trees replanted do not mature under five years for peaches and from 5 to 10 years in the case of cherries, pears and apples.

The last two seasons have been extremely disappointing from a grower's standpoint. In 1955 we had a good crop, but poor in color and late in maturity, consequently very little return for our labors, and no matter how hard one works one cannot control these hazards. Then again in the fall we had an early frost which resulted in severe damage to fruit spurs and to trees in general. The consequence was that last year's crop was exceedingly light, and quite a lot of growers, who try so hard to make a living from their orchards, have been compelled to take other work in order to make ends meet. This is not conducive to keeping an orchard in good shape for production.

From my own experience in 1949 I produced 18 tons of packed peaches on 1½ acres. In 1950 no crop at all due to frost, in addition one acre of trees completely killed. In 1951 I replanted one acre with 84 trees, and left the remaining half acre of old trees, and the biggest yield since then has been six tons from the 1½ acres.

Another factor I would like to draw attention to is the number of sizes of apples being packed, there being only an eighth of an inch difference in size. For instance there are 15 different sizes packed in each variety and in each grade. Could not a saving in packing charges be made if the number of sizes was reduced? Then again, the Cee grade apples are all wrapped, and in a heavy producing year the market does not absorb them. Consequently, they are used for processing and the cost of wrapping and packing has been in vain.

Yours truly,
G. F. ROBINSON.

ECONOMICS ARE STRANGE

Editor, The Herald, Sir: Your editorial of Feb. 18, "Strange Economics," might well have been headed, "Economics Are Strange."

When a strike takes place the cost in wages, revenue of operation struck, is carefully worked out and published, and it would seem that such expense is forever lost, and not regainable.

According to the NES offices across the country as at Dec. 13, 1956, there were 314,000 seeking employment. This is a lot of workers out on involuntary strike. Taking 100,000 as unnecessarily out of work, and estimating their wages at $1 per hour, on a 44 hour week that's $4,400,000, and if this was 50 per cent of the cost of a product that's 8,800,000 lost per week. In 50 weeks, $440,000,000.

It would be hard to find any saving here as Mr. Harris so benevolently suggests should be done.

Furthermore suggestions along the line of taking in each other's washing as a means of solving unemployment is hardly suggestive of saving.

Your truly,

lying downstream, then that country has the right to sue in the court of the injuring country."

The speaker noted that in the case of British Columbia, however, there is the situation where all water rights are vested in the Crown, and the Americans might find litigation rather complicated. There is also an International Commission on waterways which is capable of arbitrating a dispute if both countries agree to abide by the findings. However, one of the countries can refer their side to the commission, in which case the finding is not binding on the other country.

The great power potential of the Yukon River is also threatened by conflicting interests, he said. As Canada has the river and the inland area, and America has the coastline, the speaker felt that the whole matter should be treated on a two nation basis. The treaty signed between Great Britain and the USA in 1925, which gave the Alaska Panhandle to the latter, was a sell-out for Canada, he claimed.

Pointing out that the waterways and power potential of the rivers was a birthright of this and future generations of British Columbia, he felt that it was most unwise to enter into any agreements to sell power, even for limited periods, across the border. Once industry is built to use such power, it has a vested interest in it and it becomes difficult if not impossible to enforce the termination of the supply.

Before introducing the speaker, president R. B. Cox welcomed seven new members to the meeting.

Miss P. E. K. Gwyer thanked the speaker for his address on behalf of the club.

Commons Debates Extension Of Municipal Grants Act Benefits

OTTAWA, (BUP) — The House of Commons is debating a government resolution to extend the benefits of the municipal grants act.

Finance Minister Walter Harris said that the government proposes to remove the two per cent floor and pay grants to all municipalities with federal property where the normal city services are performed.

Thursday's debate was highlighted by CCF member Harold Winch of Vancouver who told parliament that the federal government has no records of how much property it owns or how much it is worth.

Winch claimed that public works department officials admitted that they have no central record and that it would take about a year for the department to complete a list of crown properties and evaluate them.

He said that has been the reason why government "left itself a four million dollar spread in estimating what the increased grants would cost."

He urged the government to adjust the financial responsibilities of the three government levels since the additional financial responsibilities of the municipalities had outstripped their incomes.

Ifeor Dujakis (L. Montreal-St. Marie) and J. P. Deschatelets (Montreal) supported the proposed L. Montclair-Maillone-Rosemont amendments as evidence of the federal government's willingness to meet the financial difficulties of the municipalities, but William Hamilton (PC-Montreal-Notre-Dam-de-Grace), said that the national harbors board owned $12 million worth of untaxed property in Montreal, and made a grant to the city representing only one-tenth of the normal taxes on the land. He said the new act should apply to crown companies.

O. L. Jones (Okanagan-Boundary) said the federal government's tight money policy was largely responsible for municipal financing difficulties, and that municipal and provincial governments should receive some compensation from the federal treasury for the use of their roads by international, interprovincial, and federal traffic, such as by tourists and defense forces.

Gov't In Japan Decides To Quit

TOKYO (UP) — The two-month-old government of ailing premier Tanzan Ishibashi has decided to resign en masse, it was reported today.

The cabinet's action was not unexpected. Its resignation had been rumored after Japanese doctors prescribed two more months of rest for Ishibashi, head of the Liberal Democrat party.

The 72-year-old premier has been confined to his bed since Jan. 23 with what attending physicians first called a "light" case of bronchial pneumonia.

Government sources said acting prime minister Nobusuke Kishi will convey the government decision to resign to president Nosahuru Suzuki of the opposition Socialist party today.

coast estimated that it would cost them $10,000 to do this part of the project alone, he said.

Mayor Fitzwater said there had been quite an outcry by valley municipalities at the thought of repeal of the Shops Regulation Act, which the government is proposing.

He quoted the experience of Calgary, which repealed its store-hours controls in 1955, with regrets.

He said the position taken by the hairdressers, that they would be compelled to work a 12-hour day was not compatible with the facts, and that they would find it necessary to keep such hours. The discussion on the insurance for members of council, originally a Penticton suggestion, ended in a stalemate on the question. It was pointed out that civic governments may insure their employees, but not the council members.

A joint-delegate to represent the entire valley will again be sent to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities convention.

WELL, THE GROWN-UPS DON'T KNOW AT ALL

URBANA, Ill., (UP) — The literary likes and dislikes of a two or three-year old may differ greatly from what adults think he should like.

Large, clear and colorful pictures of something the child knows, and understands rate much higher than the "cute" books that more sophisticated adult taste sometimes dictate.

So says Queenie Mills, University of Illinois child development and family relations specialist, who reports that the best books contain pictures of animals with an accompanying sentence or two so the child can hear about and see the action at the same time.

Large, life-like renderings are favored over smaller and more stylized pictures. The pictures should be uncluttered so the child can understand the action easily, she said.

Red Cross Society Assists Hungarian Refugees At Airport

The Canadian Red Cross has established a transit centre at Gander Airport to assist Hungarian refugees. Red Cross representatives meet all incoming planes and give emergency assistance to refugees during their stopover whether en route to Canada or the United States.

David G. Decker, Newfoundland Division Commissioner, is the representative of the national organization and supervises the operation of the centre.

He is assisted by Mrs. Klara Kelemen, a worker of the Travelers' Aid Society in Toronto, on leave of absence, Miss Nancy Mellon, director of welfare services of Ontario Division, Miss Vicki LaRose, R.N. director of nursing services of New Brunswick Division, Mr. Ferenc Serfozo, of Montreal, loaned to the Canadian Red Cross Society by the Rural Settlement Society, and volunteers from the Gander Branch of the Society.

Clothing, toilet articles, food and other necessities are distributed to the refugees. Special attention is given to mothers and children, the aged and the infirm. It is estimated that 140 refugees pass through Gander Airport every 24 hours and this activity may be further intensified in the near future.

RELIEF FUND
The Canadian Hungarian Relief Fund reported returns of $363,077 on January 2.

The national objective is $500,000. Mr. G. A. Thorvaldson, Winnipeg, and Mr. G. G. Temesvary, co-chairman of the fund, urged Canadians to give further support in order that Canada will be able to contribute its share for Hungarian relief in Austria and Hungary.

The unpredictable flow of 153,000 refugees to Austria greatly increased financial requirements and objective must be reached or oversubscribed, they stated.

The Canadian Hungarian Relief Fund is being administered by the Canadian Red Cross.

End In Sight Saturday As Vees Make Series 2-0

It's two up and two to go for the Pentiction Vees against the Vernon Canadians. But looking at it from the other side, it's two down and still four to go.

Every Pentiction citizen has a chance to see the Vees make it three up and one to go tonight in Vernon. Several Vees fans got together and decided that Pentiction should be well represented in Vernon.

Bill McKinnon, the head of this group of fans and a valuable member of a Pentiction Vees' booster club is making arrangements and by this morning, there were 10 cars and 38 people making the trip.

Arena manager Les Edwards reserved 200 seats for the Pentiction fans. An RCMP patrol car will head the caravan, which leaves at 5:30 p.m.

The two clubs will be back in Memorial arena Saturday night and Vernon will bring another man with them. He is Don McLeod, the defenseman who was rewarded with a five game suspension for battering a linesman in Kamloops while he was trying to separate McLeod and a Chiefs player from fighting.

Meanwhile, in Wednesday night's game the Pentiction Vees did it again. They beat the "butchers" 7-4 before 2186 delirious fans.

Vernon Canadians, tabbed the butchers because by hook or by crook they try to end an opposing hockey player's life before his rightful time is up, never stood a chance from the opening whistle.

Vee's Dave Wall popped a puck into the Vernon net with the game only 13 seconds alive. They went on to rack up a 7-1 lead on goals by Kev Conway, Walt Peacosh, Gerry Leonard, Clare Wakshinski and Bob Chorley, who beat Gordon twice.

Odie Lowe picked up Vernon's first marker at 7:22 of the first period. Art Davison, Tommy Stecyk, and Frank King scored the former Allan Cup champions' other three goals in the final frame while Vees were sticking to defensive hockey.

The win makes the semi-final series 2-0 for Vees with the third game slated for tonight in the Canadians' arena. The game also marked Ross Valerie's debut as a referee in the Okanagan hockey league. And, it was a successful debut as he was right on every play preventing what could have been another butchery for Vernon.

Following Wall's goal, Kev Conway smashed a blue line shot past Gordon at 1:34. Lowe countered with his goal on a smartly played setup. Thirty seconds later Bob Chorley got his first goal when he drove up the sidelines and banged a shot from an almost impossible angle near the boards that caught the unguarded side of the net.

Chorley nailed his second marker of the game with a shot about 30 feet directly into front of the net that bounced off Gordon's stick and into the twine.

Walt Peacosh gave Vees a 5-1 lead about a minute before the period ending buzzer when he tapped in Clare Wakshinski's rebound.

With only 30 seconds left to play, Ted Leboda deliberately speared Walt Peacosh in the chest. Peacosh had to come off the ice for the rest of the period. Valerie saw the butcher pull his little stunt, and he along with Willie Schmidt, who was caught earlier for hooking, took a skate to the sin bin for two minute penalties each.

It took only 39 seconds for Gerry Leonard to score Vees' first goal of the middle frame when he beat Gordon with a close in shot from the side. Clare Wakshinski was in there at 8 minutes to give the Vees a 7-1 lead when he tapped in Peacosh's rebound.

The rest of the period saw close checking hockey that kept the fans on their toes. Frank Kubica turned in some sensational goal tending during the rest of the period and for that matter, the whole game.

Art Davison beat the brilliant Vees' goaler at 3:32 when he took a pass from Don Jakes and hit the open side of the net. Tommy Stecyk nailed Vernon's third goal on a blue line shot that travelled through various stray legs and sticks.

With only three minutes remaining, Frank King scored on another smart play as he took relays from Schmidt and Odie Lowe.

Vernon picked up all six deserving penalties while Vees played fast clean hockey. Hal Tarala's crew outshot Vernon 27-17 in the first two periods but Vernon came back to shoot 19 times to Vees' 12 in the final frame as the home squad played strictly in their own end.

VERNON'S PRETTIEST BOOSTER, Greta De Backer, who is just out from Belgium six months, was cheering her heart out for Canadians here Wednesday along with about 200 other loyal Vernonites who came in a caravan to see the game. But their best cheering didn't help the Agarmen as the Vees swept to a 7-4 victory. Vees' supporters have organized a lusty cheering squad to chant "Go, Vees, Go" in Vernon's ice palace tonight — why not join the crowd.

Gerry Leonard Top Man For Vees Canucks' Lowe Tops All Marksmen

Vernon's Odie Lowe led the OSHL individual scoring statistics with a whopping 61 goals and 53 assists for 114 points, one more than Grant Warwick's total last year. Warwick racked his 113 points up on 54 goals and 59 assists.

Jim Middleton was Kelowna's top marksman, John Millard was tops for Kamloops and Gerry Leonard led Vees with a sixth place standing.

Billy Hryciuk, probably the cleanest player on the ice in the OSHL, came seventh with 76 points and 9 minutes in penalties, a far cry from Ted Leboda of Vernon who is hidden in the dark depths of the list with 18 points and 211 minutes in penalties. Lakers Trounce Inept Rockets

The Pen-Hi Lakers, getting in shape for the Okanagan finals, took it out on the Princeton Rockets yesterday afternoon in the local gym as they trampled the visiting squad 63-22.

Lakers didn't need any encouragement from the beginning to the end as they racked up a 15-2 lead. They let up in the second quarter and dumped only eight points into the hoop to the Rockets' six.

After the breather, Lakers took it out on the helpless Princeton Senior "B" boys' squad as they dropped 20 points through the net. Princeton broke through Lakers' defence for half as many points.

Eighteen points was the order for the fourth quarter and Lakers got them. Rockets scored four on one field basket and two free shots.

Ryan Conley was top man for the Lakers with 26 points. Bob Parker also hit the double figures with 12. Sid White just got over the line with 10.

Don Ely was tops for Rockets with eight points. Lakers are on the maples again tonight as coach Bill Boyd gets the team in top form. They meet Oliver in Oliver for a league game. There will be little competition from the hosting squad except for personal triumph as they are out of the running for a spot in the Okanagan finals.

Saturday will see Lakers back home again, facing the Senior "B" men Omegas.

Spokane Evens Their Playoffs

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Spokane Flyers squeezed through to a 2-1 win over Rossland Thursday to even their best-of-seven Western International Hockey League semi-final with the Warriors at one game apiece. Rossland took the first game 7-4.

After a scoreless first period duel between Spokane goalie John Soffiak and Warrior netminder Reno Zanier, Lofvendahl was just stepping on the ice at 7:29 of the second, after a penalty, when the Flyer power play clicked and Frank Kubasek scored from Jack Lancien and Car Cirullo he was in the "sin bin" again at 14:23 of the second frame when Art Jones rifled in the winner from Dave Gordichuk.

George Samos rolled an identical high single for the men with a 309 and John Ledenich copped the second high single with 302.

Nothing stood in Samos' way as he went on to take the high of 1191.

In the Thursday mixed league regular bowling, Hazel Nourse topped the single with 239 while Agnes Corher came in to take the triple with 540.

Jim Sloan topped the men's division in both brackets with 276 and 701.

Board To Press For Meat Inspection Plan

The problem of full inspection of meat supplies in the Valley was discussed by the South Okanagan Union Board of Health here Wednesday afternoon.

The debate was opened by Dr. R. E. Earnshaw, Penticton veterinarian, who spoke on the need for meat inspection in the valley.

"It is not enough that meat offered to consumer appears to be normal," Dr. Earnshaw said. "The consumer expects to get a disease-free product. Protection from disease conditions transmissible through meat, about which the buyer has little knowledge, are at the core of this problem."

He touched briefly on the federal laws governing inspection; the Meat Inspection Act of B.C., declaring which conditions render meat unfit for human consumption. In other instances, he said, the inspector may use his discretion, and destroy parts or the entire carcass. It is to discern these diseased conditions that render a qualified veterinarian necessary.

"Thorough cooking of meat will kill parasites and bacteria which constitute a hazard to public health. But before it is cooked, the meat must be handled by the housewife in its raw state, thus putting them in a vulnerable position if the meat should be diseased," he said.

At the present time there is no financial aid for construction of adequate slaughterhouses. These are expensive, said Dr. Earnshaw, in estimating a figure of $20,000.

Delegates at the meeting, familiar with present-day costs, said this amount is insufficient.

"The economic conditions of an area play an important part in any program of meat inspection," said Dr. Earnshaw. "When it is financially economical for the cattle growers of the Okanagan to sell their produce locally after proper slaughtering and inspection, then and only then will it be adopted voluntarily."

He said that little profit is made from the handling of meat that goes forward to the wholesaler. The profit is made from the handling of meat that goes forward to the wholesaler. The profit comes from the by-products: hooves, horns, glands and material sold to dog food factories. A large volume is essential to make the business pay.

As this area now produces only a few thousand head of beef each year, he noted, it is questionable whether a slaughterhouse would pay. But if a moderate subsidy could be obtained or a loan arranged, then the advent of such a plant would be welcomed by the stockmen of the area.

"We are fortunate that the incidence of disease among livestock is low. Nevertheless, there will be times when a diseased animal will be slaughtered and offered for human consumption, frequently either through ignorance. It is the hope of the director of the South Okanagan Health Unit that this risk be averted by setting up a proper system of inspection."

"You may rest assured that the veterinary profession is fully behind the move," said Dr. Earnshaw.

In discussion, one delegate said that a veterinary on inspection duty must remain in the slaughterhouse from the time it is opened until it closes, which would make such attendance costly.

Delegates attending the session said they were not discouraged by the difficulties of the task in attempting to implement meat inspection. They agreed to discuss the plan with other units in the province. In the meantime, local and district efforts will be carried to gain full meat inspection in the valley.

A colorful character in the early territorial history of New Mexico was Lucien B. Maxwell, a hunter and trapper who became the sole owner of 1,714,765 acres of land near Taos. In 1870, he organized a bank in Santa Fe and issued stock certificates bearing a picture of himself smoking a large cigar.

Dartmouth College's first varsity football game, in 1881 against Amherst, was played in uniforms borrowed from Princeton.

Urges Gov't To Relax Tight Money Policy

OTTAWA, (BUP) — The Senate's recognized leading economist today warned that former President Herbert Hoover's recent depression forecast would apply to Canada, too, unless the current tight money policy is speedily relaxed.

Sen. Neil A. McLean of New Brunswick, a former banker, frequent economic adviser to the late President Franklin Roosevelt, and for several years head of Canada's largest firm of export fish packers, told the Upper House bluntly in the continuation of its Throne speech debate Thursday that "if this tight money squeeze keeps up we shall have a downward fluctuation in production that will cause an awakening we may not like — and we shall have plenty of unemployment also."

McLean charged that the Bank of Canada "seems to have seceded from parliament" and to be now following banking policies which are completely contrary to the intention of the Bank of Canada Act in the conditions they are creating in the national economy.

At the same time as he criticized the Bank of Canada, the New Brunswick Senator attacked the reluctance of United States interests, especially newspaper importers and users of nickel, to pay fair world prices for Canadian raw materials.

McLean said that "everyone who takes the trouble to give the situation a little study knows that the cost of manufacturing newspaper has gone up considerably during the last year and the wonder is that the increase was so slight. This small advance of four dollars per ton will not cover more than a portion of the increased manufacturing costs. Freight rates have come up substantially, the discount on the American dollar has doubled, and there are several other items of increased costs."

In respect to nickel, McLean stated his belief that for some years it has been exported to the United States at considerably below world prices that could have been realized.

He suggested that at least 50 per cent of the International Nickel Company's board of directors should consist of Canadians, in order that Canada's interest in securing fair and reasonable price returns from a country with which it had a heavy trade deficit should be safeguarded.

He challenged the Bank of Canada's contention that a threat of dangerous inflation existed in the Canadian economy today. Actually, he said, one of the effects of the bank's tight money policy had definitely resulted in itself, since it had resulted in higher interest rates which, in turn, imposed an added cost upon the entire community and thus helped to drive prices up.

McLean said that the high interest rates caused by Bank of Canada policy were costing Canadians an additional $650 million on financing that borrowers had been compelled to carry out in the United States.

Instead of controlling inflation, he argued that the Bank of Canada policy was simply driving Canadian borrowers into the United States money markets, with the result that vast interest payments which normally would have remained in Canada and augmented purchasing power here now were going south of the border. They were proving a drain upon the Canadian economy instead of a source of strength to it.

McLean also attacked the logic of the Bank of Canada in seeking to cut back production at the same time as it proclaimed a threat of inflation. Any economist knew, he said, that one of the surest safeguards against inflation was a plentiful supply of consumer goods, since it had the automatic effect of keeping down prices. The cut-back in production which the Bank of Canada policy was aiming at was one of the most certain ways to invite an inflationary price spiral.

THE MCINTYRE HOME ON DeBECK ROAD

A House Full Of Memories

(As Penticton grows and new homes are built in a modern trend, it might be well to remember the houses of an older era, whose character and style have grown with the years. The following story on the McIntyre home on DeBeck road is the first in a series of articles on pioneer homes in the city. —Editor.)

By GEORGIE MCANDLESS

I was recently privileged to visit the home of the Misses McIntyre.

As I drove up DeBeck Road approaching the house, the pine trees lined the road like sentinels, and finally the stark white beauty of the house rose before me with a mountain forming a backdrop.

I was greeted at the door by the Misses Lila and Katie McIntyre, who have lived in the house since their brother, the late D. J. McIntyre, purchased it in 1920.

The entrance hall is as large as many living rooms in today's houses, and is paneled in fir. A spiral staircase in the same fir wood leads up to the bedrooms on the second floor, and a beautiful green oriental chandelier lights the wood in the panels and the staircase.

As we entered the living room from the hall a breath-taking view from the window met my eyes, as the lights of Penticton twinkled like stars, and you could see as far as Peachland.

Standing there one could imagine the scene in the spring when the orchard below the house is in full bloom, or perhaps a quiet afternoon in the autumn when the coloring of the trees is reflected in the blue of the lake.

Tea was waiting for us in the writing-room which opens off the living room, with Miss Katie McIntyre presiding over the silver tea service.

In this room was reflected the personality of Miss Lila McIntyre and there was many evidences of her hobby which is gardening. A conservatory connecting the house and the garage provides many hours of pleasure for her as she grows her lilies and chrysanthemums and prepares the bulbs for the spring planting in the beds surrounding the house.

As I looked from the writing room toward the south, there was the beautiful dining room paneled in fir with a drop chandelier of crystal and one could imagine the parties and dinners when the many friends gathered perhaps at the festive season or some other special occasion and the hospitality which is so graciously dispensed from the lovely built-in fir buffet.

The home was built in 1906-1907 by the DeBeck family who sold it to D. J. McIntyre in 1920. Miss Katie and Miss Lila McIntyre came from the east to make their home with him until his death in 1943.

In the 50 years since the house has been built there has been many changes and many memories. Some of the memories will be of friends who have travelled far from this lovely valley, other memories are of loved ones, who have been called away, and still other memories will be of friends who visit still.

The house holds them all, and sits in its serene beauty a symbol of strength and security.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet In Convention Here This Weekend

This week-end, February 22, 23 and 24, upwards of 800 of Jehovah's witnesses will converge on the Penticton high school auditorium to attend their semi-annual circuit assembly.

The religious enthusiasm of these people has for some years made them a rather spectacular section of most communities.

They have been hailed as the fastest-growing religion in the world. Local history reveals that Penticton was host to a convention in 1948 when less than 600 attended from an area stretching from Kamloops to Revelstoke and Golden, south to Osoyoos and west to Princeton and Merritt.

Now, from considerably less than half of this area, peak attendance this week-end is expected to hit the 1,000 mark.

This increase is typical in their scope a total of 165 lands and islands of the sea. They maintain currently a total of 78 branch offices in most of the major countries with the exception of Russia and satellite countries, where their work has been banned and their activities driven underground.

Expansion is the theme for Jehovah's witnesses, and to prove it they cite their present building program, geared to cope with present and anticipated expansion.

A new 13-storey printing plant has just commenced production in New York. New buildings are either in planning stages or under construction in England, France, Germany, Sweden and many other countries. Toronto has just seen the completion of a beautiful modern building, which Witnesses point out, will be capable of caring for the three-fold Canadian growth, anticipated in the next few years. To substantiate their expectation they point out that their Canadian membership has tripled in the past ten years.

Highlighted on the week-end convention program will be their current colored film "The Happiness of the New World Society."

Scheduled for the high school auditorium on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. it carries the audience through a series of conventions spanning North America and Europe.

Featured also at the convention will be a public lecture scheduled for Sunday at 3 p.m., "What Will Armageddon Mean for You?"

More than 20,000,000 acres of land in South Dakota have been brought under soil conservation practices.

BUGS BUNNY

RECORD BUDGET

Of the $60 monthly old age pension, British Columbia pays $20, and Ottawa $40. During the throne speech debate that ended Thursday, members of the legislature had pressed the provincial government to take the lead in boosting the pensions.

He also reported that the B.C. government-operated Pacific Great Eastern Railway had an operating surplus of almost $1.8 million last year and that the money is now being used to liquidate borrowings guaranteed by the province for extension of the railway.

Bennett, who is also finance minister and president of the PGE, told the legislature in his budget speech that up to last November traffic had increased by 45.42 per cent over the same period in 1955.

The northern extension to Fort St. John and Dawson Creek will be completed by the spring of next year, the premier predicted. This will give the area a direct rail line of 729 miles to Vancouver.

The northern extension is progressing on schedule and all construction contracts to complete the section have been let. The government has estimated cost of rail construction north of Prince George at $135,000 per mile.

An additional extension to a point at the north side of Beaton River and some 50 miles from Fort St. John has been authorized, and surveys of the area are now being done.

The budget further revealed that the government would only continue to give UBC an annual grant of $1,000,000 for the next ten years as part of an earlier agreement with the university to supply new buildings.

The University of B.C., said Premier W. A. C. Bennett in his budget speech, "has fared far better than other universities in Canada 'if we relate the volume of contributions from public funds to the population of the province.'"

Premier Bennett said he would "consider carefully warranted expansion proposals" in future. At the same time he charged "industry and the people generally" with doing "little to endow the university in a manner comparable with that experienced elsewhere."

Just last month a student delegation from UBC met with Bennett's cabinet and presented a brief requesting an additional $5,000,000 in capital aid grants. The students said grants already promised them could not keep pace with the university's rising population.

Other budget items emphasized by Premier Bennett: The B.C. government has paid Ottawa $482,796 for "compensation" since the province purchased the Lions Gate Bridge from a private company.

Premier Bennett said the federal government was given the money "as compensation for the loss in federal income taxes sustained from the time the bridge was acquired and operated by the province."

The structure, which links the City of Vancouver with the north shore over the First Narrows, was bought by the B.C. Toll Highway and Bridges Authority January 1 of 1955.

Premier Bennett said his "cautious budget" is aimed at combating the federal government's "tight-money policies" and the unsettled situation in Britain and Europe.

However, he was quick to add that "British Columbia's great dependence on exports closely related to primary production . . . tends to make this province vulnerable to credit restrictions, adverse rates of monetary exchange, and excessive marketing costs."

"A relaxation in the national tight-money policy would assure the province of a higher-than-average percentage of capital investment," Bennett said, "our prospects would indeed be bright . . . if no reduction were to occur and a high level of production were to be maintained."

Premier Bennett said "an element of uncertainty prevails which compels the exercise of caution. The caution is reflected in our estimates of revenue, and will be the guiding factor in the management and timing of fiscal matters until our part is clear."

To fight the federal government's "tight money policy", the Premier plans to put an additional $36 million into the sinking fund over and above the $13 million requirement.

Bennett said he believed the additional reserve funds would pave the way for private citizens — such as home-builders — to obtain money.

His aim is to put the sinking fund in a position where it would be able to purchase government agency bonds, keeping them from the open market and leaving more money for others.

Available money for loans, the premier said, would result in lower interest rates and help the average person borrow cash.

This is the opposite to what the federal government is doing in curbing credit and clamping tighter money policies in general across the country, Bennett said.

SECOND SECTION

THE ANNUAL BANQUET of the Penticton Volunteer Fire Department saw a little friendly lobbying for the much desired aerial fire truck as firemen entertained city council, city hall executives, and head of RCMP Wednesday evening at the fire hall. Examining the scale model aerial truck and display are, left to right, Fire Chief H. M. Foreman, Acting Mayor Elsie MacCleave, Assistant Fire Chief W. Mattock, Councillor J. D. Southworth, Councillor F. P. McPherson, Staff Sergeant Nesbitt and Councillor H. M. Geddes, chairman of fire protection committee.

TV Construction Proceeds Despite Wintry Conditions

Though hampered by cold weather and delays in obtaining equipment, construction of South Okanagan Television Distributors' wired TV system in Penticton is proceeding at a steady pace.

At present, about two-fifths of the total installation for distribution has been completed, most of which lies to the west of Main street. Close to 17,000 feet of TV cable remains to be installed in this western area which is expected to finish shortly.

The area east of Main street calls for more construction work due to the greater distances involved and the additional new lengths of messenger required to be strung. One-fifth of the messenger cable has been strung in this eastern area and work is proceeding in the placing of new poles, gying, and stringing of cable.

When the whole system is completed, it will encompass an area approximately bounded by Ellis Creek, Okanagan river, and on the east by the boundary of the orchard lands.

The next phase will be to extend up Vancouver avenue to the Warr subdivision, Farrell, Johnson road to Redland subdivision, Hospital Hill area, Duncan avenue and down Main street to Redland subdivision.

Though television has arrived in Penticton, many problems were involved before the signals that brought the screens alive could make their "conducted tour" to the homes of city residents.

If a television signal is considered as being somewhat like a beam of light, one has only to look up to see the towering mountains in this area to realize that there is plenty of reason for being in a shadow. With television it is not only a "shadow", it is a blackout. That was the problem. The closest TV station was Spokane, 105 miles distant and mountains five and six thousand feet in height lying in the direct path.

In August, 1954, three Penticton men John Atkins, Archie Cummings and Lashley Hagman posed the question: "How can TV be brought to the citizens of Penticton?" Obtaining a license to broadcast was a difficult and lengthy process. With no cable facilities the problem of sufficient material for programming was a major obstacle. And the answer proved to be "wired TV".

A system that even in 1954 was in use all over the North American continent serving localities that were in fringe areas or areas beyond the range of individual antennas. In fact, it was also in service in areas served by TV stations, such as Vancouver, because of certain desirable features.

From preliminary work it was found that signals could be received from Spokane from high elevations. With electronics expert Garth Pither, from the Fred Walsh organization of Vancouver, and the three local men as-

Seeks Uniform Action

Decision to seek uniform action throughout the 16 health units in B.C. on problems of compulsory pasteurization of milk, inspection of meats, chlorination of water supplies, was made at the annual meeting of the Union Board of Health held here Wednesday.

Councillor N. E. Suddaby of Glenmore said there is a provincial conference of health unit representatives to be held in April when the basis for the uniform action could be established.

The board also decided to send letters to the other 15 health unit regions in order to obtain their reaction to the proposals.

Assisting, every mountain top was covered within a radius of 14 miles of the city. Signals were received on many of the peaks and the final location was chosen because of the excellent signal and the accessibility of the site. The position of the site is critical, as moving even a short distance away, the reception can decrease considerably.

Now that a satisfactory signal was determined it was necessary to prove that the signal would be reliable not only hour by hour and day by day but throughout the year.

A tent camp was set up, portable generator packed in and reception was monitored from April, 1955, to June, 1956. Results were so good that the intention to set up and operate a wired TV system for the city of Penticton was proved to be justified.

By the end of June, South Okanagan Television Distributors was formed by a group of local businessmen with Barney Bent as president to finance the concern. On September 27, 1956, the company was underway. Arrangements for right of ways, use of telephone poles and other factors were negotiated.

The right of way from the VLA boundary to the antenna site, a distance of 3.3 miles, was cleared to a width of 100 feet and 122 poles placed to carry 4000 volts (alternating current), to the antenna site and bring down the one-inch coaxial TV cable.

A concrete building was built at the site to house the amplifying equipment and the elaborate antenna arrays were built, one set of arrays for each channel. Channel four required eight masts each carrying two ten element Yagi type antenna to build the signal up ten times in strength to feed the amplifier.

The equipment at the site composing pre-amplifiers phasing equipment, monitors, main amplifier, is designed to feed a strong signal into the special low loss co-axial cable which carries the signal to the main distribution point, located at the corner of Eckhardt and Main street. The signal is then monitored and controlled at this point and the several channels are distributed to four sectors which will eventually encompass the whole city by means of a network of half inch diameter co-axial cable which is tapped by individual supply lines into customers homes.

For every 2200 feet of cable a self contained amplifier is inserted to maintain the required signal strength throughout the whole system. When the system is completed there will be approximately 40 of these line amplifiers in use and over 180 thousand feet of TV cable strung.

58,076 Boxes Apples Shipped To Markets

Total movement of apples for the week ended February 16 was 58,076 boxes of which approximately 6,000 moved to the United States, 3,000 to the United Kingdom, 5,000 to Eastern Canada and the remainder, about 44,000, to Western Canadian markets.

This was reported by the B.C. Tree Fruits in its latest marketing bulletin.

The demand for apples, while not exceptionally brisk, continues at a steady pace on all Western Canadian markets.

Wineaps were released towards the latter part of last week and approximately 20,000 boxes of this variety have been shipped to western markets up to Saturday night. Shipments will increase after March 1 when compulsory CPS heating charges are lifted.

There is some competition, particularly in Manitoba and to some extent Saskatchewan, where supplies are being delivered from other producing areas.

The Winnipeg market is currently selling Michigan and Wisconsin McIntosh, Ontario McIntosh and to some extent Nova Scotia and Quebec McIntosh. There are also some Idaho Wineaps available and Ontario ship-ments are quoting Spies and Dellpines.

There are indications that the condition of some of these McIntosh which have been stored in ordinary storage is deteriorating with some breakdown showing up.

PM Outlines Program For Balance Session

OTTAWA, (UPI) — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent outlined a non-contentious pre-election program to the Commons Thursday for the balance of this session of parliament, and members knew immediately an election is not far off.

He said when the government decides to raise old age pensions and veterans allowances, it would be announced in Finance Minister Walter Harris' budget.

He said the government always hoped to get the budget approved by parliament, but left the door open to an election beforehand, with the new parliament meeting in the autumn to complete this session's work.

Mr. St. Laurent told the Commons that introduction of legislation to set up a federal-provincial hospital insurance plan would depend on provincial acceptance of the offers made by the federal government.

A bill to permit waiver of Britain's interest payments on her 1946 loan from Canada also would be introduced if negotiations covering its term are completed in time, he said.

"We always hope that the legislation we bring forward can go through but we do not attempt to rush matters," Mr. St. Laurent said.

IWA Ready To Press For Wage Hike

VANCOUVER, (BUP) — Thirty-thousand lumber workers from the British Columbia coast fired the opening guns in their fight for a large increase in wages as the International Woodworkers of America, British Columbia's largest union, went into annual convention Thursday in Vancouver.

The 160 delegates were charged with settling the figure the union would demand from the lumber operators. Estimates ranged up to a whopping 30 per cent more pay.

Union officers backed up the determination of the men to make big gains in the forthcoming negotiations despite employers' gloomy reports of falling markets.

Joe Morris, B.C. president of the union, said the gloomy predictions were intended to block wage increases.

"It is inconceivable that we should be panicked into a major recession when all the major trends point to a continued buoyancy of the national economy," he said. "Continued prosperity will not result from depressed wages accompanied by soaring profits."

Morris told the opening session of the six-day meeting that the 30,000 coast woodworkers were ready to go on strike to back up their wage demands.

A guaranteed annual wage demand was also to be considered by the delegates. It called for an assurance of 200 days of work during the year.

The resolution declared that winter employment conditions cause "an extreme financial burden from which many loggers never recover."

It pointed out that forest companies tried to complete a full year's logging during favorable weather, and it was often impossible for loggers to find other employment during the winter season.

Arkansas claims more navigable rivers than any other state in the Union, offering about 3,000 miles of waterways.

New Record For British Tourist Traffic Forecast

Overall traffic in Britain in 1957 is estimated as 1,100,000 with a minimum of 61,000 Canadians, both figures topping 1956 totals by about 5 per cent. Commonwealth visitors — with Canadians twice as numerous as visitors from any other country in this area — are particularly useful, notes Mr. McLean, because they stay longer than other nationalities.

Mr. McLean points out that "all sections of the British travel industry are geared to take care of an increase in numbers, and visitors can be sure of a high standard of comfort and service. In particular, it must be emphasized that the temporary restrictions on gasoline for the cars of U.K. residents, do not apply to tourists; overseas visitors renting a self-drive or chauffeur-driven car, buying a British car for subsequent export, or taking their own vehicle with them for temporary use in Britain can obtain gas coupons for virtually unlimited motoring."

Every minute of a dry 105,000 gallons of gasoline is used in the United States, the National Automobile Club estimates.

Anglican Dignitaries Attend Meeting Here

Anglican church clergy and other distinguished church leaders attended the regional conference of the Kootenay Diocese in St. Saviour's Anglican Church parish hall here Wednesday.

Arriving on the afternoon plane from eastern Canada were the Right Rev. Philip R. Beattie, B.A., D.D., Bishop of Kootenay of Kelowna, who has been in Toronto and Ottawa; Rev. Canon E. Rigby, B.A., B.D., Hamilton, Ontario, and John Ligertwood, of Toronto.

Canon Rigby, who is treasurer of the Diocese of Niagara in Hamilton, and a member of the budget committee of the General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada, and Mr. Ligertwood, general treasurer of the General Synod, are making an extensive trip through western Canada to acquaint the various diocesan officials with the many problems that confront an expanding church responsibility. They are also surveying the general problems and conditions which are common to the local areas of the Anglican church.

They met with representatives from Nelson, Kelowna, Vernon and Pentiction; all members of the Diocesan executive committee of the Diocese of Kootenay. Those present included: the Ven. D. S. Catchpole of Kelowna, Archdeacon of the Okanagan and treasurer of the diocese; Ven. B. A. Resker, of Castlegar, Archdeacon of the Kootenays; Rev. Canon W. Silverwood and Rev. Canon G. W. Lang from Nelson; Rev. Canon A. R. Eagles, of Pentiction; O. C. Altken, E. C. Weddell, Q.C., Chancellor of the Diocese of Kootenay, both of Kelowna; P. S. Sterling of Vernon, and H. J. Bawtree, lay secretary of the diocese from Enderby.

Another meeting was held yesterday by Canon Rigby and Mr. Ligertwood with the Right Rev. R. S. Dean, M.Th., D.D., Bishop of Caribou, from Kamloops, and the Ven. Archdeacon C. H. R. Bradshaw and G. S. Dawson, lay secretary of the Diocese of Caribou.

Mr. McLean points out that "all sections of the British travel industry are geared to take care of an increase in numbers, and visitors can be sure of a high standard of comfort and service. In particular, it must be emphasized that the temporary restrictions on gasoline for the cars of U.K. residents, do not apply to tourists; overseas visitors renting a self-drive or chauffeur-driven car, buying a British car for subsequent export, or taking their own vehicle with them for temporary use in Britain can obtain gas coupons for virtually unlimited motoring."

Pipe Removal At Baskin Irrigation Site Recommended

Removal of the concrete pipe in usable lengths from the site of the Baskin irrigation line has been recommended by the irrigation committee of council.

On the Baskin line an asbestos cement pipe of suitable capacity will replace the older concrete pipe. Estimated cost of this project is $2,150.

WATERBURY, Conn. (UP) — Thomas Murray, 16, trained his pet collie to jump over low obstructions, such as porch railings and hedges. On his first trip into the city, the dog came upon the three-foot railing on the West Main Street Bridge. It immediately hopped over, and fell 20 feet to the river below. The dog waited on a pile of debris in the river until rescued.

Is The Horsepower Low In Your House?

Did you ever wonder why, in your home, the lights dim when the refrigerator motor goes on? Why it takes so long for your iron to heat up? Why your electric bills are higher than your neighbor's?

The answer is easy — "not enough horsepower!"

Lack of horsepower isn't just an accident, there are definite causes for it. . . and almost always they are right inside your house. With few exceptions, there's plenty of current in the wires along the street. The trouble begins with what the experts call your "service entrance" — the big board where your main switch, meter, and fusebox or circuit-breaker are located.

These are rated in amperes, and a low horsepower rating says you've got a bottleneck in your electrical system. Most houses now have 60-ampere equipment, which is hardly adequate for an average home; some have 100-ampere which is the usual recommended minimum; and a few 200 or more. Others are as low as 30.

The wires or conductors that carry your current to where you are going to use it are "branch circuits". Most of these are outlet circuits. When equipped safely with fuses of 15 Amps, these will carry 1650 watts of power. Exceptions are "special" circuits such as those for your range and high-speed drier. These call for heavier wires and fuses. If there are too few circuits or if they have too many outlets, you have bottleneck number two. The effects are like a water system where pipes are too small or there are too many taps turned on. You get only a trickle of water or too little electrical current.

Having too few branch circuits is a reason for the unsightly and dangerous "octopus" found in so many living quarters. When you see an outlet or an extension cord loaded with extra plugs it's a sure sign of wiring where "a boy is trying to do a man's job."

The alternative is the situation so many housewives have to live with and suffer. They get the "off and on" complex because they can't boll the electric kettle while doing the ironing; or two heavy appliances won't work right at the same time.

The size of your electric bill comes in here too. Appliances, lamps and motors are made to operate best at standard levels of power. They slow down and operate inefficiently if they are on short rations — and electricity is actually wasted due to heat loss. The dial in your meter keeps right on working and the "kilowatt hours" figure on your bill keeps adding up. You pay for electricity — but you can't use it!

Next time you fidget because the breakfast toast is slow or the coffee is late, remember that your bank account is taking as bad as beating as your temper. In fact, more than temper and pocketbook are suffering. Overloaded wires and connections can develop into real hazards. Damaged by overheating, they can start one of those "electrical fires" that get into the headlines.

Even though your house doesn't burn, you have to foot part of the bill for those that do. The insurance premium you pay reflects the losses experienced by the insurance companies. Five-year averages show close to 6,000 electrical fires a year in Canada. These represent property losses of about $10 million annually.

Fortunately, there are things you can do to protect your own home and thus cut the cost of the national fire damage.

Fire marshals and others concerned with these dangers point out that "overfusing" is the most frequent cause of fires of this type. They recommend adoption of strict regulations which would require installation of equipment where fuses of only the proper safe capacity could be used. If enough of us supported the experts, our fire insurance costs could be appreciably less.

Meanwhile, you can resist the temptation to slip a "heavy" fuse in your own system. The ones that say "15 Amp" are made to pass all the current wiring can handle safely. One that says "30 amp" is an open invitation to disaster.

Modern Tile Designed to Fit New Concepts in Home Decor

Tile, one of man's oldest building materials, is keeping pace with modern home design with new colors, designs, sizes and shapes.

Its traditional durability, beauty and facility of cleaning have been carried over to the new concepts of decor—and the age-old product has at last "come into its own."

For generations, tile was a byword in only the kitchen and bathroom. Today modern tile is designed for every room in the house.

A tile-faced fireplace, for example, with the new reeded wall tile of Pomona design, gives a rich-textured appearance. It has been heat, acid, and pressure-tested in laboratories to insure "practically indestructibility." The finish is mottled brown, to give more character than is possible with a plain surface. And the fireplace border is of brightly-glazed tile of darker hue to "frame" the fire.

The tile-faced fireplace is virtually color-fast because the tile is subjected to 1800- to 2100-degree (Fahrenheit) heat when fired in the factory kiln and the glazed surface is easy to keep free of soot and smudge by simply wiping.

Custom-designed colors, shapes and sizes have helped enlarge ceramic tile's "sphere" to include the patio, home exteriors and a special new use at the troublesome front door entrance. Many householders have found their expensive wall-to-wall carpeting soon faded from wear and a special new use at the troublesome front door entrance. Many householders have found their expensive wall-to-wall carpeting soon faded from wear and a special new use at the troublesome front door entrance.

But while tile has expanded its uses, it has also stayed in the kitchen and bathroom with new designs brightening both rooms.

"Decorative tile" is the name of the new approach to enhancing these two utility rooms. It includes such unusual ideas as: white tile centered with black tile in the form of a Chinese good luck symbol; "Shell Caprice," a seashell pattern against a white background, highlighted by aqua blue, with the shells in pink, beige, brown or black; jeweled tile, giving a six-color burst on white background, and gold-jewel tile, used especially as an inset in a field of plain-color tile.

Want To Pull An "Inside Job"? Winter Offers Best Opportunity

So many building projects throughout Canada are slowed down or brought to a complete halt during the months of January through March that unemployment in building and allied trades during this season can become a serious problem.

But what a break for people who want to do an inside job.

On the upper floor, for instance, if that were a car instead of a bathroom at the end of the hall, would you trade it in? Could the installation of "father and son" wash basins cut out the morning queue? Is the shower an old-fashioned type that merely pours water on you, when it should refresh with a stinging, energizing aerated spray?

What's more, we have grown out of the notion that one bathroom is sufficient for the needs of a growing family. Many new houses have a second bathroom, or at least a powder room. And what a boon these convenient little "fresh up" rooms are, not only to the family itself, but as a welcome courtesy to guests on party night.

Many downstairs locations present themselves to be turned to this purpose. A normal hall cupboard can quite easily be large enough to accommodate a water-closet and wash-basin which, after all, can be fitted with ingenuity, into a space no larger than 42 inches square.

And perhaps the kitchen is far from being as labor-saving as its original designer thought it was. Today's kitchens planned to save time and work, make the job of providing for a hungry family so much easier for a busy housewife.

Start by ripping out the old back-breaking sink and putting in a new model, equipped with features like the mixer faucet, the swivel type nozzle which pours water of just the right temperature into either the sink or wash-tub, and a retractable spray hose for easy rinsing of vegetables or clothing. Surround it with work surfaces so that the passage of food from refrigerator to sink to stove to dinner table is made with the minimum of fuss and footwork.

Here are the "inside jobs" that Canadians all over the country could do, and the only person to be robbed would be old father time, robbed of his chance to turn old houses into relics.

Homeowners Urged To Avoid Major Indoor Accident Hazards

Homeowners at this time of year should make every effort to eliminate accident hazards.

More accidents happen in the home than anywhere else and during the cold weather season, when people spend a great deal of time indoors, the toll reaches its peak.

Among the most serious offenders in home accidents is fire — some 550 Canadians are burned to death each year while hundreds more are injured. The majority of these deaths and injuries occur during the winter months.

St. John Ambulance suggests homeowners take these steps for the safety of their families:

1) See that electrical, gas and heating fixtures are all in good order.

2) Be sure all ashes are stored in metal containers only.

3) Dispose of oil and paint rags immediately — but not in an inflammable container. Use a metal container, preferably covered.

4) See that cellars, attics and store rooms are cleared of rubbish and inflammable material.

5) And, of course, don't smoke in bed or misplace lighted cigarettes.

Falls, too, cause many home accidents. Many can be prevented by: making sure rugs do not slip; picking up children's toys at night; wiping up spilled liquids immediately.

In addition, keep stairways (which statistics show are extremely dangerous) clear and well lighted. Basement stairs are especially dangerous. Use rubber mats inside and beside the bath tub, especially if older people or children are in the home. Do not use unsteady chairs or stools when climbing.

Poisons and poison gases are hazards of the home that should be watched.

Make sure that all poisonous liquids, particularly drugs and cleaning materials, are clearly labelled, kept in proper containers and placed out of reach of small children.

See that gas fixtures and coal furnaces are in good order and that automobiles are not warmed up in a closed garage. A victim of gas should be removed immediately to open air and artificial respiration applied. The limbs should be rubbed to aid circulation. Give strong coffee when the victim is fully recovered. It is always advisable to call a doctor in such cases.

To be prepared for accidents in the home, St. John Ambulance suggests that medicine chests contain prepared adhesive dressings, two-inch gauze dressings and one and two inch gauze bandages. A final safety precaution is to have at least one member of the household know first aid.

Supporting Posts For Wood Fences

Supporting posts for solid wood fences, or those made with solid panels of plastic, asbestos and aluminum, should be embedded in concrete. This is because the fences present an unyielding surface to the wind, placing quite a strain on the posts, which should be steel or heavy lumber.

Rustic fences are usually left unfinished, while those made of dressed lumber are stained or painted.

Quarries of whetstones are located in Garland and Hot Spring Counties, in Arkansas.

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE AN ILLUMINATED FLOWER BOX

A lighted plant box that simulates full sunlight makes it possible to grow a variety of plants all year.

First, make frames for the glass panels. Use 1 1/2 by 3-inch lumber. Assemble the frames using dowel joints. The dowel pins are 3/4 inch in diameter and 8 inches long. Locate hinges 3/4 inches in from the ends of the top frame. Recess the hinges.

The glass panels, 6 1/2 inches wide by 30 inches long, are installed as shown. A daylight fluorescent fixture completes the project.

major classes. If what has happened is any guide to the future, more and more of us are going to want them.

For example, central air-conditioning multiplies by many times the requirement of a room-sized unit. Devices like heat pumps are a possibility. Scientists are speculating about entirely new ways to supply lighting, about facsimile transmission of newspapers, about telephones with pictures.

The home-workshop trend piles up the power demand, as do things like outdoor lighting. And with increasing complexity and precise control elements, there is increasing need for current supplies to be maintained inside your house at full rated standards.

Voltage-drops and low-power connections may prevent proper operation or result in complete failure. In fact, the fully-electrified home of tomorrow will use as much electricity as a small factory.

So far, we've been talking just about home problems, but the same story applies to offices and plants. Every electrical engineer, contractor or maintenance man can give examples by the dozen.

Even with today's machines for office and plant, troubles are piling up. Air conditioners are banned in many older buildings; office machines fail to work properly; plant equipment can't be installed without expensive alterations to wiring systems.

What is going to happen with "automation" and "electronic brains" is likely to cause more than a few king-size headaches.

If we "let this be a warning," all of us are going to be pretty careful about how we may be able to "live better . . . electrically" in the future. The wise way to prepare for that future is to learn the facts now.
